

REMARKS

In attempt to clarify the nature of the structure of the invention, the original claims have been cancelled and new claims amended to recite that the fabric in the structure is continuous and reinforces the substantially all of the structure. In the rejections the Examiner cites art that at the most uses a small fabric portion as a hinge. The fabric is in the structure only to the extent necessary to anchor the fabric in the structure. This fabric serves no reinforcing capacity for the entire structure. The prior art fabric cannot relate to the reinforcing nature of the fabric of the invention. In the substantial absence of the fabric the prior art structure cannot achieve the physical properties recited in claims 45 and 53. Further the prior art structure has no folded edge as recited in claims 43 and 44.

Applicants invite the Examiner to pass these claims to allowance.

Respectfully submitted,
